Edinburgh, Tuesday, October 18, 1726.

From the St. James's Evening-Post, Oct. 11.

Palermo, Sept. 6.

THE Desolation of this City on Account of the Fright of the People, and the irreparable Loss sustained by the late terrible Earthquake is inexpressible. Among other Buildings, &c. overturned and ruined, are the Palaces of the Prince de la Rocca, Palambo, and the Dukes de Montalba and Salvago, the Convent of Misericordia, which took Fire a few the same Time that we had the Earthquake, the new Church of St. Nicholas de Tolentin, the great Tower of the Cathedral, the Hotel of Giardinazzo, the Palace du Busache, the Foundary, the Gallery of the Dock, the Town Wall towards the Sea, as far as St. John's, the Works at Port Salzo, Tallow-chandlers street, the Squares before the Jesuits House, Panheri and Mont-Perperito, and the Milk-market, and about 3000 Persons have been taken out of their Ruins. But the Number of those swallowed up cannot yet be known. This terrible Event was in a Manner foretold the Day before by an Air extremely thick and heavy. Betwixt 5 and 6 in the Evening, a very hot South Wind arose, and soon after a hard Shower of Rain fell, notwithstanding which, the Wind was rather more violent. About an Hour or two after, the Storm seemed somewhat abated, but betwixt nine and ten at Night, the Wind and Rain came on again with Fury, and then it was that we felt the first Shoke of the Earth, which was followed by two others that were more violent.

The most circumstantial, and what seems to be the most authentick Account of this Earthquake that we have yet seen, is what has been printed by Authority at Naples, being the Substance of Letters written by the Prætor and President of Palermo, &c. and sent by a third Hand to the Vice-roy.

The first Letter from the Prætor, being written but two Hours after the Tragical and deplorable Event, only express in general the great Damage done the Buildings, and the terrible Confusion of the Inhabitants; without descending into Particulars, except that the Princess de la Rocco Palambo, Mother in Law to the Marquis de St. Marine, perished with her Nephew grasped in her Arms.

The second Letter, which he wrote the Day after the Earthquake, speaks of a whole Island of Houses being overturned on the Sea-side, and of infinite Streets of Houses and Shops reduced to Rubbish, so that the Ruins were enough to draw Tears from all Spectators. It adds, that the second Storey of the Duke de Montalba's Palace fell in and crushed the Domesticks to Death; as was also a Centinel of the German Picquet Guard by the Fall of the Front of the Marquis de Rusaca's House; That the Royal Palace fared worse than all, being as it were uninhabitable, the Galleries, Halls, &c. being quite demolished, and the Stair-case laid open, and the great Hall broke through by a Chain which fell upon it of 1200 Weight. He says also, That the Roof of the Cathedral was carried away; but observes, that the Religious Houses have not suffered Damage, nor the Garrison, nor the Castle de la Marine, nor that of the Town; and that there is a remarkable Compunction among the People, who shed Torrents of Tears, and continually pour out their Sighs before the B. Virgin, and other Tutelar Saints, with Tokens of Repentance, and hearty Prayers to GOD for Mercy.

The Prætor concludes, that so great was the Confusion and Desolation, that he was doing his utmost with the Nobility and Senate to comfort the afflicted Inhabitants, by causing the numerous Houses that threatened to fall, to be propp'd up, and preventing any Wrong that might be done in taking the Dead out of the Ruins, and in sending the Wounded to Hospitals.

The President takes Notice in his Letter, That for 24 Hours after the Earthquake, they had not felt any other; contrary to the Custom of Earthquakes. The President adds, That he had thought fit to reinforce the Guard upon the Prisoners, to hinder them from undertaking any Thing detrimental to the Government and Peace of the People; most of these Prisoners being sorry Rascals, who would stick at no Mischief tho' Heaven

Wye's Letter, verbatim, October 13.

Since our last arrived two Mails from Flanders, and one from Holland.

THE Advices by the Dutch Mail make no Mention of the Grievances of our Protestant Brethren with respect to their being redressed; but tell us, that the Garrisons of the Polish Frontiers are kept in good Condition, and the Fortifications of several Towns were repairing. And from Grodno, that at the Opening of the Diet there arose great Debates, the Result whereof was not known. Publick Prayers are ordered to be put up there.

But if what has been demanded in Behalf of the Protestants should continue to be disregarded, we may very likely hear in the Spring of the Motion of the Russian Troops, and those of other Protestant Powers, in order to give Weight to the Representations so long ago made on the important Subject above mentioned.

Mean time 'tis remarked, That the Ministers of the Emperor and Czarina are arrived at Grodno, and appear very solicitous for effecting their Negotiations.

The Court of Madrid is said to be daily in Conference upon Matters of high Importance; and that they were upon sending an Ambassador to the Emperor of Russia, who has given Orders for building several more new Gallies.

Letters from Rome intimate, That Cardinal de Bentivoglio (Minister of Spain) in a private Conference with the Pope the 21st past, discovered to his Holiness Matters of the last Importance concerning the Affairs of Spain. Some Accounts go so far as to say, that his Catholick Majesty has declared, That in case Admiral Hosier did not soon quit the Coasts of Porto Bello, he would look upon it as a Breach of Peace.

Some are of Opinion, should a War break out, (which God avert) it will be as general, as Europe was ever engaged. Mean Time we may contemplate our Happiness of having such a Navy, as will make us safe at home, and formidable abroad.

'Tis said the French are storing Magazines for 100,000 Men for eight Months. On the 17th Inst. King Stanislaus came, as we are advised, by the French Mail, incognito to a Country Seat near Fountainbleau, where he is to have an Interview with his Most Christian Majesty.

On the 4th Inst. the Ratifications of the Treaties with the Electors of Bavaria, Cologne, and Palatine, were exchanged at Vienna. There is an Account that Admiral Castagnetta, who was Chief Commander of the Fleet in the Engagements with Sir George Bing (now Lord Torrington) in the Mediterranean, arrived in the Spanish W. Indies, in order to protect and Guard the Trade of their Nation in those Parts.

Our Stocks begin to fall a little: S. Sea. 100, 1 half. Annuities, 96, 3 4ths. India, 139. Bank, 121, 1 half. York Buildings, 11, 7 8ths.

They write from Edinburgh, that Patrick Mitchell, confined in the Castle for the Glasgow Riot, has made his Escape: And that Mr. James Nimmo, one of the present Magistrates of Edinburgh, will succeed Sir William Ker of Greenhead, as Receiver General of the Excise in Scotland.

Fourteen Ships have been driven a considerable Way near Drago in the Sound by the Storm and high Tide, and given over for lost.

This Day came up at Guildhall a Prize of 1000 l. against No. 13279. Undrawn Lottery Tickets, 1. 9. 15 sh.

'Tis a general Expectation, that in a short Time there will be something extraordinary from the W. Indies.

The Dutchess of Portland is not yet arrived.

From the Evening Post, Oct. 13.

Rome, Sept. 27. The Chevalier de St. George is making great Preparations for his Journey to Bologna; his two Sons are to set out thither first with their Governors.

Madrid, Sept. 24. Count de Coningseck, Extraordinary Ambassador of the Emperor, has greater Interest than ever at our Court. 'Tis given out here, that the Gallies will arrive at Cadix before the the Conclusion of this Year, under Convoy of 16 Spanish Men of War now in the W. Indies.

Grodno, Oct. 4. There arose Debates at the very Opening of our Diet, of which we do not as yet hear the Consequences. Publick Prayers have been ordered both for the Success of the Diet, and for the Mortality among the Black Cattle.

Vienna, Oct. 5. The Troopers who some Time ago abus'd some of the Servants of the Duke de Richlieu Ambassador of France, have been sentenced to run the Gantlet; but at the Intercession of the said Duke, were pardoned.

Berlin, Oct. 12. The Imperial General Seckendorf appears very frequently at Court, which occasions various Speculations. 'Tis said our Regiments are going to be augmented.

Francfort, Oct. 13. The French do not only reinforce all their Garrisons in Alsace, but also bring together so great a Quantity of Provisions as would suffice an Army of 100,000 Men for 8 Months.

Hague, Oct. 17. Letters from divers Parts of the North are full of melancholly Accounts of Losses of Ships occasioned by the late Storms.

P. S. This Day we had a Mail from France.

Paris, Oct. 19. The General Assembly of the Clergy has granted the King a free Gift of 5 Millions, in Consideration of which they are to be exempted from the Tax of 2 per Cent. King Stanislaus will shortly have an Interview with their Majesties at Bavanes.

They write from Madrid that the Abbot de Mongon is not the Person appointed Confessor to his Catholick Majesty, but Father Clark a Scots Jesuite.

Beruy, Sept. 28. This Day came on the Election of our Magistrates, when the Honourable James Alardice of that ilk, Sheriff Principal of Kincardine, was chosen Provost; John Walker, David Stepple, and Alexander Chaplain, Baillies; William Chaplain, Dean of Guild, and William Lamb, Treasurer.

Glasgow, Oct. 7. Last Week a Royal Commission for visiting the University of Glasgow, sat here, and restored the ancient Rights and Privileges of the Students in the Election of the Rector, which some Years ago they had been deprived of, and appointed the Election for this Year to be on the 16th of November next. They also made several Laws and Statutes for the Government of the University, which as well as their other Proceedings, having been managed with a strict Regard to the Statutes, and with the greatest Unanimity and Moderation, the Commission have thereby obtained the general Applause of this City and Country, as well as of the Members of the University. At the same Time the University made void, and annulled the Acts, by which some of the Students were expelled for Matters relating to the Defence of their Rights in the Election of a Rector.
